CHIEFS OF AXIS MAY CONFER ON HUNGER IN ITALY

Critical Food Shortage May Be Studied; Jap Envoy To Sit With Hitler, Duce

PEACE OVERTURES HEARD

London Paper Hints Rome Will Be Permitted To Quit Strife At Any Time

LONDON, April 30 — Amid reports of growing tension in Italy, accentuated by a critical food shortage, it was said today in axis reports that a meeting would take place shortly between Adolf Hitler, Premier Benito Mussolini and the Japanese ambassador to Berlin.

The Japanese radio broadcast the report of an impending meeting between the axis chieftains, quoting a dispatch from the Berlin correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Hochi Shimbun. The correspondent gave as his authority "well-informed" sources in the German capital.

Masimori Oshima, Japanese ambassador to Berlin, will in all probability participate in the talks with Hitler and Il Duce, Hochi's correspondent said.

The report of the meeting attracted widespread attention in view of current difficulties in Italy and new efforts by the Germans to send out peace feelers through three neutral countries.

"Feelings" Put Out
The independent French news agency reported from Ankara that separate German peace feelers had been put out during the last six weeks in Turkey, Switzerland and Sweden. Terms of all the proposed peace settlements were similar, it was said.

A document put out in Stockholm was said to call for Anglo-American recognition of German control in Europe, although the Nazis were represented as being "prepared" to consider "Anglo-Saxon" suggestions for application to the new order.

The second provision would allow Germany to annex such Russian territories as necessary to complete her "European living space," and a third provision included a German demand for the greater part of French, Belgian and Dutch colonies.

Once these "fundamental conditions" were accepted, Germany would recognize the British empire in its present form and recognize the control of "North America over South America, both in the political and economic sphere," it was said.

Under the proposed plan, collaboration to establish a system of free trade between the three empires was provided, and a final provision hinted that Germany (Continued on Page Three)

METZENBAUM TO ENTER CAMPAIGN FOR CONGRESS

CLEVELAND, April 30—James Metzenbaum, Cleveland Democrat and two-term member of the Ohio Senate, today declared himself a candidate for Congress from the 22nd district of Ohio.

CHINESE FORCES CONTINUE FIGHT

Counter-Attack May Relieve Situation At Lashio; Deny Burma Road Cut

CHUNGKING, April 30—Chinese forces in Burma are continuing to hold Japanese units at New Lashio, a few miles south of Lashio proper, a Chinese military spokesman said.

He disclosed that the invaders had reached to within a few miles of Hsipaaw, 35 miles southwest of Lashio, but denied that the Japanese had captured either Lashio or Hsipaaw and cut the Burma road.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: According to Reuters, the spokesman added: "The situation in Burma is not hopeless. Everything depends on a Chinese counter-attack at Lashio. If successful, it would cut off supplies to the Japanese columns which then would be likely to be annihilated.")

The spokesman declined to venture a prediction on whether the defending forces could long hold out against the strong Japanese forces and prevent the capture of the Burma terminus of the vital life-line leading into China.

He said Chinese forces on the Sittang river front were driving east from Taunggyi to Lashio in an effort to smash the Japanese lines of communications.

SAN DIEGO HAS SECOND ALARM WITH BLACKOUT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 30 — San Diego returned to normal today after a brief blackout during which all radio stations were silenced throughout southern California.

The fourth interceptor command ordered the alert at 10:24 last night and this was followed by the blackout in San Diego at 10:40 because of the presence of unidentified planes over the west coast.

The "all clear" was sounded at 11:16 p. m. when the planes were found to be "friendly." Radio stations resumed broadcasting at once.

It was the second time in less than 24 hours that radio stations in the Los Angeles area had been ordered off the air. For 33 minutes early yesterday, the stations were silent during an alert caused by what the Army termed the presence of an unidentified object off the coast.

BRIDEGROOM, 26, JAILED AFTER SUICIDE ATTEMPT
COLUMBUS, April 30—Isadore Haas, 26-year-old bridegroom of two weeks who allegedly slashed his bride across the face with a pocketknife, was arrested by police today shortly after he apparently attempted suicide.

Police said Haas attempted to take his life by striking himself in the forehead with a hatchet while standing in front of a mirror at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Friedland.

Mr. and Mrs. Friedland are the parents of Haas' wife, Hanna, 23, who is in a Columbus hospital with a knife wound in her face. Mrs. Friedland said Haas, who has been the object of a widespread police search, entered her residence this morning and went to an upstairs room.

ALL OF LIGHTS IN GOTHAM AREA TO BE PUT OUT

NEW YORK, April 30—New York's great railroad terminals, her multi-story hotels and office buildings, theatres, side-street bistros and the great White Way and Times square itself will be black for 20 minutes tonight—black such as the one million people who live, work or play in that section of Manhattan never have seen before.

Elevated lines—and there are only a few of them left—will be the only gloom-piercers as all surface traffic comes to a stop and, for the first time in the history of the world's greatest city, complete darkness blankets Manhattan from 13th street to 123d street and from river to river, east to west.

Not a light will gleam in Times square, not a light will shine along Broadway during the 20 minute blackout test. Grand Central station will be dark on the outside, a few dim lights to guide travelers inside and Pennsylvania station will be similarly darkened.

DAVIS TO RUN AGAIN
WAVERLY, April 30 — Rep. Jacob E. Davis, Pike county Democrat, today announced his candidacy for re-election to Congress from the sixth district. Clermont, Brown, Highland, Scioto, Pike and Adams counties make up the district.

RATIONER GIVEN DATA ON SUGAR TRADE SIGN UP

County Rationing Coordinator George D. McDowell was receiving reports from local school site administrators Thursday on sugar registration conducted for trade consumers during Tuesday and Wednesday.

Figures on the total number of trade consumers in the county may be available by late Thursday, the county coordinator said. Reports from the local registration stations contain the following information: 1. total number of registration of retailers and wholesalers' forms filed; 2. total number of registration of institutional and industrial forms filed; 3. total number of sugar purchase certificates issued; 4. total number of sugar purchase certificates spoiled or mutilated and 5. total number of unused sugar purchase certificates.

In preparing for the consumer registration, which opens in the local school districts Monday, Coordinator McDowell said that instructions called for the registration of every person, regardless of whether or not he needed sugar. The program is compulsory and everyone must register, he pointed out. The consumer registration will be conducted in the elementary schools.

REPORTERS FIND WOMEN FILLING MANY POSITIONS

AKRON, April 30—Women reporters touring war plants noted ever-increasing numbers of female employees in the vast Akron rubber plants today making gas masks, rubber pontoons, and airplane parts for the armed forces.

The army of women engaged in making the sinews of war for all branches of the services range from 18 to 50 years in age and work in eight-hour shifts 'round the clock.

Still others, former waitresses, beauty operators, elevator girls, and department store clerks, are in training at the plants. Most have relatives in the service.

FREAK TORNADO TAKES 12 LIVES

Oberlin, Kan., Hit During Night By 'Hopping' Wind Storm

OBERLIN, Kan., April 30 — Twelve persons were known dead and 16 others were in hospitals today after a freak tornado skipped at random through farms on the eastern edge of this northwestern Kansas town last night.

Two entire families were killed by the storm, which cut a half-mile swath through the farm district just outside the Oberlin city limits.

E. R. Woodward, editor of the Oberlin Herald, said the tornado "hopped" along an eight-mile course, destroying homes at intervals in its path. Some of the wrecked buildings were located less than 50 yards from others which were not damaged.

Five persons were killed when one residence was ripped asunder and four died in a second dwelling. Nearly all buildings on a nearby farm were destroyed, but six members of the family were able to make their way into Oberlin in an automobile which escaped damage.

Three of those fatally hurt were small children, and four others were of high school age.

Nine of the injured were taken to a hospital at McCook, Neb., and seven others were hospitalized in Oberlin. Mayor John C. Nitsch said several of those at the Oberlin hospital were in "very serious" condition.

Miss Margaret Hunsicker, West Union street, has been appointed as chief of the emergency medical division of the Circleville Defense Council, Miss Hunsicker, who is county health nurse, replaces Karl J. Herrmann who has resigned to accept employment at Wright field, Dayton.

Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt, who is a member of the Pickaway county budget commission, wrote to state authorities in Columbus Thursday for specific instruction concerning distribution of $3,130 sent here by the state for distribution where it is needed to carry on the Civilian Defense job.

The money has arrived and is in the county treasury, but no information concerning its distribution has been received.

A large part of the money is expected to remain in Circleville since all rationing work is done here, the auxiliary fire unit and two auxiliary police organizations are located in the city, in addition to other divisions of the important war work.

"STIR BUZZ" THREAT TO KILLER

Seldom-heard "stir buzz" spread through Colorado state penitentiary as convicts, like the populace, assumed a threatening attitude toward Donald H. Fearn, 26, of Pueblo, Colo., who allegedly confessed the torture, criminal assault and murder of 16-year-old Alice Porter. Fearn was taken to the penitentiary for safe-keeping when officials feared that enraged citizens might attempt violence. The railroad is pictured above as he was questioned. On the table in front of him are the hammer and gun used in the slaying.

War Agencies Prepare To Stabilize Wages Of U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 30—War agencies in Washington today plan to stabilize nearly all wages in the United States in line with the ceilings set over retail prices and rents.

Labor, it was learned, will be asked to voluntarily surrender for the duration of the war demands for higher wages except to adjust inequities or to meet the cost-of-living standards, which will level off at the March rate when Price Administrator Leon Henderson's sweeping price control orders become effective next month.

The appeal will be made by the War Labor Board. Failing that, Congress may act, or, it was pointed out, the government itself holds power to fix wages by writing pay scale provisions into all war contracts.

Henderson's office, meanwhile, worked feverishly drafting new price orders to establish complete control over American economy and the cost-of-living, and the Federal Reserve board prepared to issue new restrictions on credit and retail buying.

Moving at a fast pace which cut governmental red tape but left all wholesalers, retailers and landlords in the nation faced with the job of filling out registration blanks, the war agencies began to exert more and more control over American life, business—and the pay envelope.

COMMITTEE HITS EFFORT TO END 40-HOUR WEEK

WASHINGTON, April 30—In a severe setback for those advocating suspension of the 40-hour week, the House naval affairs committee today shelved the Smith-Vinson bill, spearhead measure in the drive to revise existing labor law.

The vote was 13 to 12. The measure, which was sponsored by Committee Chairman Vinson (D) Ga., and Rep. Smith (D) Va., would have sharply limited corporate war profits and lifted the 40-hour work week ceiling.

Before the vote, Vinson admonished the committee that a vote to shelve the measure would be "equivalent to voting against the legislation."

Defeat had been conceded earlier by Smith who told reporters that the bill appeared to be "dead."

Offensive Against Trondheim Area Major One; Vital Locations Hit

LONDON, April 30—Large squadrons of Royal Air Force planes crossed the channel this afternoon, streaking towards Boulogne and Cap Gris Nez on the north coast of occupied France.

There were numerous dog-fights in the Boulogne area. Simultaneously, heavy explosions were heard from northern France.

By LEO V. DOLAN

LONDON, April 30—Royal Air Force squadrons soared over the outskirts of Paris last night to deliver a heavy bombing attack against the large Gnome-Rhone airplane plant which has been turning out equipment for the Nazi luftwaffe.

At the same time the Germans singled out the east Anglian city of Norwich for a new revenge assault.

A large formation of British planes again bombed the occupied coast of France. The concussion of heavy explosions across the channel shook the Folkestone areas of England. RAF craft were observed returning from the direction of Calais.

High explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped by the luftwaffe raiders in a sharp half-hour attack on Norwich, cathedral city which was blasted night before last by the Nazis.

The air ministry said several of the German raiding planes were badly damaged by anti-aircraft guns, and defending fighter planes.

An air ministry communique describing last night's operations said: "Our bombers heavily attacked the Gnome-Rhone aero-engine factory adjoining the Goodrich rubber works at Gennervillers."

"Since the last attack, the Germans had strengthened anti-aircraft defenses, but this did not prevent a low-level attack. Large fires were left burning at both works."

"STIR BUZZ" THREAT TO KILLER

Seldom-heard "stir buzz" spread through Colorado state penitentiary as convicts, like the populace, assumed a threatening attitude toward Donald H. Fearn, 26, of Pueblo, Colo., who allegedly confessed the torture, criminal assault and murder of 16-year-old Alice Porter. Fearn was taken to the penitentiary for safe-keeping when officials feared that enraged citizens might attempt violence. The railroad worker is pictured above as he was questioned. On the table in front of him are the hammer and gun used in the slaying.

War Agencies Prepare To Stabilize Wages Of U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 30—War agencies in Washington today plan to stabilize nearly all wages in the United States in line with the ceilings set over retail prices and rents.

Labor, it was learned, will be asked to voluntarily surrender for the duration of the war demands for higher wages except to adjust inequities or to meet the cost-of-living standards, which will level off at the March rate when Price Administrator Leon Henderson's sweeping price control orders become effective next month.

The appeal will be made by the War Labor Board. Failing that, Congress may act, or, it was pointed out, the government itself holds power to fix wages by writing pay scale provisions into all war contracts.

Henderson's office, meanwhile, worked feverishly drafting new price orders to establish complete control over American economy and the cost-of-living, and the Federal Reserve board prepared to issue new restrictions on credit and retail buying.

Moving at a fast pace which cut governmental red tape but left all wholesalers, retailers and landlords in the nation faced with the job of filling out registration blanks, the war agencies began to exert more and more control over American life, business—and the pay envelope.

11 ENLISTMENTS BEING LISTED BY SERVICE BOARD

Notices of 11 enlistments during April were released Thursday by the local draft board. They are the following: Donald Wray Henry, Circleville, Fort Hayes, Air force enlisted reserve; Franklin D. Crites, Circleville, Patterson field, Dayton; Clinton Fridley Smith, Canal Winchester route 1, U. S. Navy; Horace W. Gilmore, Circleville, U. S. Naval Reserve; Edward Morris Amey, Circleville, Patterson field, Dayton; Ralph W. Aldenderfer, Circleville route 4, Patterson field, Dayton; James Erwin Bobbitt, Chillicothe, U. S. Marine Corps, Cincinnati; John H. O'Hara, Ashville route 2, Patterson field, Dayton; Dale F. Seeds, Grove City, Patterson field, Dayton; Paul Eugene Mason, Circleville, Fort Hayes, 296th Signal Installation Co., Signal Corps; Walter C. May, Circleville, Patterson field.

COMMITTEE HITS EFFORT TO END 40-HOUR WEEK

WASHINGTON, April 30—In a severe setback for those advocating suspension of the 40-hour week, the House naval affairs committee today shelved the Smith-Vinson bill, spearhead measure in the drive to revise existing labor law.

The vote was 13 to 12. The measure, which was sponsored by Committee Chairman Vinson (D) Ga., and Rep. Smith (D) Va., would have sharply limited corporate war profits and lifted the 40-hour work week ceiling.

Before the vote, Vinson admonished the committee that a vote to shelve the measure would be "equivalent to voting against the legislation."

Offensive Against Trondheim Area Major One; Vital Locations Hit

LONDON, April 30—Large squadrons of Royal Air Force planes crossed the channel this afternoon, streaking towards Boulogne and Cap Gris Nez on the north coast of occupied France.

There were numerous dog-fights in the Boulogne area. Simultaneously, heavy explosions were heard from northern France.

By LEO V. DOLAN

LONDON, April 30—Royal Air Force squadrons soared over the outskirts of Paris last night to deliver a heavy bombing attack against the large Gnome-Rhone airplane plant which has been turning out equipment for the Nazi Luftwaffe.

At the same time the Germans singled out the east Anglian city of Norwich for a new revenge assault.

A large formation of British planes again bombed the occupied coast of France. The concussion of heavy explosions across the channel shook the Folkestone areas of England. RAF craft were observed returning from the direction of Calais.

High explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped by the Luftwaffe raiders in a sharp half-hour attack on Norwich, cathedral city which was blasted night before last by the Nazis.

The air ministry said several of the German raiding planes were badly damaged by anti-aircraft guns and defending fighter planes.

An air ministry communique describing last night's operations said: "Our bombers heavily attacked the Gnome-Rhone aero-engine factory adjoining the Goodrich rubber works at Gennervillers."

"Since the last attack, the Germans had strengthened anti-aircraft defenses, but this did not prevent a low-level attack. Large fires were left burning at both works."

Pickaway County Given $30,400 War Savings Bond Quota For May

CAMPAIGN WILL BE PLANNED TO REACH AMOUNT

E. A. Smith, Chairman For District, Will Summon His Committee

PLEDGE CARDS ARRIVE

House-To-House Canvass May Receive Consideration By Group

Quota of $30,400 in War Savings bonds has been set for Pickaway county during May, Earl Smith, chairman of stamp and bond sales, has been informed.

The quota applies only to Series E, or "People's Bonds," according to Chairman Smith.

Establishing the quota at more than $30,000 will mean that some sort of soliciting program will have to be worked out. Mr. Smith said, and he added that he would call his committee together with in the near future to discuss plans for reaching the goal.

The county chairman said he did not know whether the campaign would include a house-to-house canvass of the city and county.

More than 7,000 pledge cards arrived at Smith's office Wednesday from the United States treasury department, and with them instructions asking that every person in the county be contacted during the next month.

Circleville and Pickaway county schools have been working on a stamp sale contest for the last several months but their contests will close with the close of the school year.

Series E bond sales in Pickaway county have averaged more than $40,000 a month ever since the opening of the war savings program. Figures recently released by the treasury department showed Pickaway county sales for series E in January totaled $42,000 and for February $41,000. No final figures are yet available for March, although the sales are expected to approximate $40,000.

'SNAKE' SLAYER MUST DIE FOR WIFE'S MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30—Unless a last-minute reprieve intervenes, Major Raymond Lisenba, Los Angeles "rattlesnake killer," will go to the gallows tomorrow in San Quentin prison as the last person to be hanged in California. Governor Culbert L. Olsen late yesterday said he would not grant Lisenba a 90-day stay of execution asked by the state advisory pardon board to study the case further. The slayer had requested a commutation of sentence.

Lisenba, alias Robert S. James, convicted of drowning his wife in a fish pond at their Los Angeles home in 1936 after unsuccessfully trying to kill her by thrusting her foot into a box of rattlesnakes.

"I am convinced James is guilty of the most heinous murder of his wife," Olson said. "I feel that if there ever was a case for capital punishment, this is one. A reprieve in my opinion would not serve any other purpose than to delay the evil day of execution."

The governor, however, left Lisenba one faint hope of escaping the noose. He said he would permit the doomed man's attorney, Morris Lavine, to introduce any new evidence or pleas he had to offer until the actual hour of execution.

Although California now has a tenced before it went into effect and must be hanged in accordance with the sentence.

Pickaway County Given $30,400 War Savings Bond Quota For May

CAMPAIGN WILL BE PLANNED TO REACH AMOUNT

E. A. Smith, Chairman For District, Will Summon His Committee

PLEDGE CARDS ARRIVE

House-To-House Canvass May Receive Consideration By Group

Quota of $30,400 in War Savings bonds has been set for Pickaway county during May, Earl Smith, chairman of stamp and bond sales, has been informed.

The quota applies only to Series E, or "People's Bonds," according to Chairman Smith.

Establishing the quota at more than $30,000 will mean that some sort of soliciting program will have to be worked out. Mr. Smith said, and he added that he would call his committee together within the near future to discuss plans for reaching the goal.

The county chairman said he did not know whether the campaign would include a house-to-house canvass of the city and county.

More than 7,000 pledge cards arrived at Smith's office Wednesday from the United States treasury department, and with them instructions asking that every person in the county be contacted during the next month.

Circleville and Pickaway county schools have been working on a stamp sale contest for the last several months but their contests will close with the close of the school year.

Series E bond sales in Pickaway county have averaged more than $40,000 a month ever since the opening of the war savings program. Figures recently released by the treasury department showed Pickaway county sales for series E in January totaled $42,000 and for February $41,000. No final figures are yet available for March, although the sales are expected to approximate $40,000.

'SNAKE' SLAYER MUST DIE FOR WIFE'S MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30—

Unless a last-minute reprieve intervenes, Major Raymond Lisenba, Los Angeles "rattlesnake killer," will go to the gallows tomorrow in San Quentin prison as the last person to be hanged in California.

Governor Culbert L. Olsen late yesterday said he would not grant Lisenba a 90-day stay of execution asked by the state advisory pardon board to study the case further. The slayer had requested a commutation of sentence.

Lisenba, alias Robert S. James, convicted of drowning his wife in a fish pond at their Los Angeles home in 1936 after unsuccessfully trying to kill her by thrusting her foot into a box of rattlesnakes.

"I am convinced James is guilty of the most heinous murder of his wife," Olson said. "I feel that if there ever was a case for capital punishment, this is one. A reprieve in my opinion would not serve any other purpose than to delay the evil day of execution."

The governor, however, left Lisenba one faint hope of escaping the noose. He said he would permit the doomed man's attorney, Morris Lavine, to introduce any new evidence or pleas he had to offer until the actual hour of execution.

Although California now has a lethal chamber, Lisenba was sentenced before it went into effect and must be hanged in accordance with the sentence.

off and caused only slight damage, Gen. MacArthur said.
The fort and harbor area at Corregidor in Manila bay was heavily bombed and shelled by the Japanese but counter-action by the defenders silenced three enemy batteries and destroyed a Japanese truck column, the communiqué said.

A new landing of Japanese troops from five transports at Parang, on the island of Mindanao, was disclosed.
In his announcement of the airplane accident Gen. MacArthur said:

"The commander-in-chief announces with deep sorrow the death in an airplane accident of Brig. Gen. Harold H. George of the Air Corps and Life and Time's military correspondent, Melville Jacoby.

"Gen. George commanded the air forces in the Philippine campaign and was one of the most prominent military figures in the desperate and tenacious struggle for Luzon.

"He was cited for bravery and was regarded by Gen. MacArthur as one of the outstanding air officers of the world.

"Jacoby covered the Philippine campaign for Time and Life and was distinguished not only for his literary talents but also for his complete devotion to military standards. He could well have served as a model for war correspondents at the front."

Gen. George was the first American general to meet death in the southwest Pacific area and Jacoby the first war correspondent to be killed.

Usually the Army does not announce the death of any member of its personnel while he is on active duty but Gen. MacArthur, deeply touched by the loss of the two men, decided on immediate announcement.

Gen. MacArthur considered Gen. George as one of his finest officers. He knew Jacoby well from the bitter days spent in the Bataan campaign.

Gen. George is survived by his widow, Mrs. Vera C. George, now in Redding, Cal. Jacoby leaves his widow, Anna Lee Whitmore Jacoby, the only woman to be an accredited war correspondent in Australia, and his mother, Mrs. Eliza Meyberg, of Bel-Air, Los Angeles.

bombed and mines laid in enemy waters. Our fighters attacked air-dromes in occupied territory.

"Six of our aircraft are missing."

Two Churches Hit
Dropping to a low altitude, and aided by strong moonlight, the Luftwaffe planes wrecked homes and stores. Bombs hit two churches and some of the town's historic buildings were damaged. Fires were started.

The raid was described as one of the most severe ever suffered by the town. One street was practically demolished.

The attackers were met by terrific anti-aircraft fire and finally driven off by British night fighters.

Casualties were unknown. Some persons were buried among wreckage but it was believed that the death toll would not be high.

As the RAF pursued its policy of destroying Germany's ability to make war by blasting Nazi industrial areas, naval bases and air-dromes, both in the Reich and occupied territories, it was estimated that nearly 3,500 tons of explosives had been dropped during April on enemy targets.

During the RAF three-hour raid yesterday against Trondheim the British fliers attacked the harbor area, the Nazi airfield and the famed Hagra fortress, Norway's "Alcazar," so called because of the staunch resistance offered by the Norwegians there in 1940 when the Germans attacked.

The Nazi's main naval base at Kiel also suffered large damage from other units of the RAF.

Harry McGhee of Williamsport and Galen and Tom Kirkpatrick of New Holland are in Texas and the Southwest for 10 days, buying cattle for shipment to Pickaway county.

Miss Norma Gene Schleich is resting well following an emergency operation for appendicitis which she underwent Wednesday in Mercy hospital, Columbus. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schleich of Williamsport.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff is reported as slightly improved at his home on West Franklin street where he was taken ill Wednesday morning.

The Rev. C. L. Thomas of near East Ringgold was removed Wednesday to Grant hospital, Columbus, in the Defenbaugh invalid car, an emergency operation being performed that evening. The Rev. Mr. Thomas is reported as seriously ill, the operation showing him to be suffering from a gastric ulcer in addition to appendicitis. Mrs. Thomas went to the hospital Thursday to be with him.

ATER TAX LISTED

CURLEE CLOTHES

"Sure, It's a CURLEE SUIT!"

"I used to have all my clothes especially tailored — and had the reputation of being hard-to-fit. Even when I found a ready-made suit I could wear, the chances were that the store couldn't fit me next time I needed a suit.

"But not any more. When each season rolls around, I just go in and look over the new Curlee Line. And there I find a good selection of suits in my size—in patterns and models that I like!"

That's the report of not one, but many of our customers—men who once thought they couldn't wear "ready-made" clothes. It makes no difference whether you are short or tall, thin or stout, we have Curlee Spring Suits in models and sizes to fit you. What's more—they're smartly styled, tailored to wear and moderately priced.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

bombed and mines laid in enemy waters. Our fighters attacked airdromes in occupied territory.

"Six of our aircraft are missing."

Two Churches Hit

Dropping to a low altitude, and aided by strong moonlight, the Luftwaffe planes wrecked homes and stores. Bombs hit two churches and some of the town's historic buildings were damaged. Fires were started.

The raid was described as one of the most severe ever suffered by the town. One street was practically demolished.

The attackers were met by terrific anti-aircraft fire and finally driven off by British night fighters.

Casualties were unknown. Some persons were buried among wreckage but it was believed that the death toll would not be high.

As the RAF pursued its policy of destroying Germany's ability to make war by blasting Nazi industrial areas, naval bases and airdromes, both in the Reich and occupied territories, it was estimated that nearly 3,500 tons of explosives had been dropped during April on enemy targets.

During the RAF three-hour raid yesterday against Thronheim the British fliers attacked the harbor area, the Nazi airdrome and the famed Hagra fortress, Norway's "Alcazar," so called because of the staunch resistance offered by the Norwegians there in 1940 when the Germans attacked.

The Nazi's main naval base at Kiel also suffered large damage from other units of the RAF.

Marriage To Escape Army
Duty To Be Considered
In Classification

Colonel C. W. Goble, state director of selective service system, announced Thursday the national headquarters memorandum, indicating that war requirements may compel induction of registrants with dependents into the armed forces, is now in the hands of the members of Ohio's 330 local boards, advisory board members, government appeal agents and appeal board members.

In this memorandum, national headquarters has directed the separation of such now deferred registrants into two groups (Class III-A and Class III-B) according to whether or not the individual registrants are engaged in activities essential to the nation's war effort. Those who are not engaged in essential activities (Class III-A) will be the first selected for military service when it becomes necessary to induct men with dependents.

Correlated with this basic division, two other major factors affecting the liability for military service of a registrant with dependents are emphasized in this definite and complete memorandum. They are: the degree of dependency, and whether or not it was acquired when the registrant had reason to anticipate selection for military service.

Need To Be Vital
Broadly, the degree of dependency is determined by the actual need of the dependent for the civilian earnings of the registrant, the memorandum declares, regardless of whether or not the dependent is working or is capable of working. In this connection it is pointed out that the passage of allotment and allowance laws may hereafter require a change in classification of many registrants now deferred for dependency, but that at present there is no justification for putting a man in Class I-A, or available for general military service, where there is a financially dependent wife, child or children.

Concerning cases of comparatively recently acquired dependency, the memorandum is stern in the exclusion from deferment of registrants when there is indication that the dependency was acquired to avoid military service. It states:

"In cases where the dependency status (such as marriage) was acquired on or after December 8, 1941, or acquired when induction was imminent or for the primary purpose of providing a basis for dependency deferment, pregnancy, birth, or acquiring a child, shall not be cause for classification in Class III-A or Class III-B."

"Likewise in cases where no financial dependency existed by reason of the fact that the claimed dependent, such as a working wife, was providing adequately for his or her own support, and such dependent voluntarily ceased providing for his or her own support for the primary purpose of affording a basis for dependency deferment, there shall be no classification in Class III-A or Class III-B."

Classes Defined
The two new classes for registrants deferred for dependency, created by division of the former Class III-A, are defined by the memorandum thus:

CLASS III-A. Any registrant on whose earnings one or more persons depend for support in a reasonable manner and who is engaged in an activity either essential to the war production program or essential to the support of the war effort.

CLASS III-B. Any registrant on whose earnings one or more persons depend for support in a reasonable manner and who is engaged in an activity either essential to the war production program or essential to the support of the war effort.

In making this division for dependency classification, local boards are instructed that it is not necessary to determine whether the registrant is a "necessary man," but only to determine whether he is engaged in a nonessential activity, in which case he is placed in Class III-A, or whether he is engaged in an activity essential to war production or essential to the support of the war effort, in which case he is placed in Class III-B.

WARTIME SUMMER SCHOOL
BOSTON.—The Museum of Fine Arts will conduct a war-time summer school this year to speed up classes in camouflage, photography and lithography. Russell T.

Smith, head of the school, believes industrial camouflage will soon prove too large a task for military groups alone and will require the aid of trained artists.

In Classification

Colonel C. W. Goble, state director of selective service system, announced Thursday the national headquarters memorandum, indicating that war requirements may compel induction of registrants with dependents into the armed forces, is now in the hands of the members of Ohio's 330 local boards, advisory board members, government appeal agents and appeal board members.

In this memorandum, national headquarters has directed the separation of such now deferred registrants into two groups (Class III-A and Class III-B) according to whether or not the individual registrants are engaged in activities essential to the nation's war effort. Those who are not engaged in essential activities (Class III-A) will be the first selected for military service when it becomes necessary to induct men with dependents.

Correlated with this basic division, two other major factors affecting the liability for military service of a registrant with dependents are emphasized in this definite and complete memorandum. They are: the degree of dependency, and whether or not it was acquired when the registrant had reason to anticipate selection for military service.

Need To Be Vital

Broadly, the degree of dependency is determined by the actual need of the dependent for the civilian earnings of the registrant, the memorandum declares, regardless of whether or not the dependent is working or is capable of working. In this connection it is pointed out that the passage of allotment and allowance laws may hereafter require a change in classification of many registrants now deferred for dependency, but that at present there is no justification for putting a man in Class I-A, or available for general military service, where there is a financially dependent wife, child or children.

Concerning cases of comparatively recently acquired dependency, the memorandum is stern in the exclusion from deferment of registrants when there is indication that the dependency was acquired to avoid military service. It states:

"In cases where the dependency status (such as marriage) was acquired on or after December 8, 1941, or acquired when induction was imminent or for the primary purpose of providing a basis for dependency deferment, pregnancy, birth, or acquiring a child, shall not be cause for classification in Class III-A or Class III-B."

Classes Defined
The two new classes for registrants deferred for dependency, created by division of the former Class III-A, are defined by the memorandum thus:

CLASS III-A. Any registrant on whose earnings one or more persons depend for support in a reasonable manner and who is NOT engaged in an activity either essential to the war production program or essential to the support of the war effort.

CLASS III-B. Any registrant on whose earnings one or more persons depend for support in a reasonable manner and who is engaged in an activity either essential to the war production program or essential to the support of the war effort.

In making this division for dependency classification, local boards are instructed that it is not necessary to determine whether the registrant is a "necessary man," but only to determine whether he is engaged in a nonessential activity, in which case he is placed in Class III-A, or whether he is engaged in an activity essential to war production or essential to the support of the war effort, in which case he is placed in Class III-B.

WARTIME SUMMER SCHOOL
BOSTON.—The Museum of Fine Arts will conduct a war-time summer school this year to speed up classes in camouflage, photography and lithography. Russell T.

Smith, head of the school, believes industrial camouflage will soon prove too large a task for military groups alone and will require the aid of trained artists.

John G. Boggs Points Out Need For Regulation Of Marketing

CROP PROBLEM VITAL

Referendum Will Be Held Saturday; Effort Farm Program Necessary

John G. Boggs, chairman of Pickaway county's AAA program, made a final plea to farmers Thursday to support the wheat marketing referendum. The referendum vote will be held Saturday.

"We are waging a war against international gangsterism and it is an all out change in life for the duration," the county chairman declared, and he added, "agriculture, like industry, labor and all other phases of our national economy, must reorganize its work and production."

The war has made the wheat problem even more serious than it has been in the past. Mr. Boggs believes. He suggested that last year the job of handling wheat was secondary, but today, orderly production, marketing and handling is paramount because "so much depends on the efficient use of our whole economy in the prosecution of the war."

The county chairman said "quotas will help the wheat farmer do his job properly during war time. They will provide for an organization of supplies so transportation systems will not be clogged; they will make possible more efficient use of storage facilities; they will aid in directing wheat and efficient use of storage production rather than dissipate it on things that are not needed at present; they help maintain a strong wheat structure for production of wheat as it is needed, and at fair prices."

He continued by saying that quotas help alleviate the situation caused by virtually complete lack of export outlets; they help divide equally the responsibility for adjustment among all wheat farmers cooperatively and democratically.

HERO NAMED BY PRESIDENT GIVES CREDIT TO AIDES

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—Modest Captain Hewitt T. Wheelers, who was notified in President Roosevelt's Tuesday night radio address that he was awarded the distinguished service cross for his courageous fight against the Japanese airman in the Philippines at 18 to 1 odds, today gave all the credit for the feat to his gun crew.

Wheelers was listening at the radio when the President spoke. "I felt highly honored," the Army flier said, "but, the credit really should go to the gun crew. I couldn't see what they were doing but—well the President told it right."

"There were other crews on bombing missions that day, the President just happened to pick out one."

Wheelers, 28, was piloting a flying fortress over the Philippines when he was attacked by 18 Japanese bombing planes. Wheelers' ship was chased 75 miles by the enemy ships. His plane was crippled, but four Japs crashed in flames before the chase ended.

Wheelers landed the huge flying fortress on an emergency landing field in the jungle.

On leave to visit his wife and their six-months-old baby, the young captain has been assigned to special detail to recruit youths for the air corps.

Price Fixing Expected To Stabilize Markets

President Roosevelt's price fixing program will reach out to stabilize prices on Pickaway county's livestock and grain prices, farm leaders predicted Thursday, two days after the Office of Price Administration announced its sweeping order to freeze prices on 30,000 commodities.

The government order probably will peg local hog prices at around $13.50 and beef prices at $14. Harry Briggs, manager of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative association predicted.

Top prices on cattle and hogs now are above those levels, established in March and used as a standard on which to base ceiling prices which may mean, Mr. Briggs pointed out, that livestock prices may drop slightly when the price fixing program becomes effective.

Markets on all livestock were active Wednesday afternoon at the Pickaway Livestock association sale. Good quality steers and heifers sold for as high as $15.10, $2.65 above the highest levels last week. Medium to good quality steers and heifers sold for from $10 to $12.50 and common to medium from $8.50 to $10.

There are not many good quality cattle left in the county, according to reports from local farm leaders.

Hog prices Wednesday were slightly under those of last week, with top prices quoted at $14. Top prices on hogs last week were listed at $14.35.

Medium grade hogs brought from $11 to $13, while culls to medium sold for from $8.75 to $11.

Sheep and lamb receipts Wednesday were light with fair to choice grade animals bringing $13.40. There were no fair lambs or ewes on sale.

The OPA ruling has not reached out to include grain prices, but local leaders believe that the program will affect indirectly prices on corn, wheat and soybeans. It is doubtful, Pickaway farm officials maintain, that prices on corn and wheat will be pegged within the near future, since prices on grains already are low, compared with those of other commodities.

The Labor Production division is of the utmost importance to labor. But when it came to proposing a chief of this key labor agency, the laborites did not offer the name of a labor man.

Because of personal jealousies and petty personal politics, they passed over such outstanding production experts as Robert Watt, AFL head of the International Labor Office; Clint Golden, brainy head of the CIO Steel Workers; or Walter Reuther, dynamic young vice president of the Auto Workers.

Instead, the politics-playing labor moguls got together on Lund, a lawyer, with very limited industrial experience and no knowledge at all of the war production program.

Around the White House, it is no secret that the President is getting awfully fed up with this kind of labor "statemanship." Note: When John L. Lewis heard that Murray and William Green had proposed Lund, he rumbled, "In six months they'll wish they had Hillman back."

LA FOLLETTE'S WAISTLINE

Driving to work the other morning, a Capitol newsman spied a familiar figure hoofing it and pulled up alongside.

"Care for a lift, Senator?" he offered.

"No thanks," replied Senator Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin cheerily. "I need the exercise. I'm trying to reduce my waistline."

The reporter drove on. Arriving at a hearing of the Senate Patents committee, the newsman found Senator Homer Bone, committee chairman, somewhat agitated.

"It is about time to begin," complained Bone, "but a quorum of the committee isn't present. I wonder what has happened to Senator LaFollette. He's usually one of the first here."

The reporter held a whispered consultation with Bone, after which the senator called the hearing to order.

"We will proceed without a quorum," announced Bone, with a

Sheep and lamb receipts Wednesday were light with fair to choice grade animals bringing $13.40. There were no fair lambs or ewes on sale.

The OPA ruling has not reached out to include grain prices, but local leaders believe that the program will affect indirectly prices on corn, wheat and soybeans. It is doubtful, Pickaway farm officials maintain, that prices on corn and wheat will be pegged within the near future, since prices on grains already are low, compared with those of other commodities.

ed Labor Production Division of the War Production Board.

For months, the AFL and CIO have been loudly demanding more "labor participation" in the war machinery. The Labor Production division is of the utmost importance to labor. But when it came to proposing a chief of this key labor agency, the laborites did not offer the name of a labor man.

Because of personal jealousies and petty personal politics, they passed over such outstanding production experts as Robert Watt, AFL head of the International Labor Office; Clint Golden, brainy head of the CIO Steel Workers; or Walter Reuther, dynamic young vice president of the Auto Workers.

Instead, the politics-playing labor moguls got together on Lund, a lawyer, with very limited industrial experience and no knowledge at all of the war production program.

Around the White House, it is no secret that the President is getting awfully fed up with this kind of labor "statemanship."

Note: When John L. Lewis heard that Murray and William Green had proposed Lund, he rumbled, "In six months they'll wish they had Hillman back."

The torpedoed Argentine tanker Victoria displayed her neutrality with no less than six flags painted on bridge, sides, and stern. Yet the Nazis went for her. . . . Some time after U. Also she would like to deport 75,000 bags of coffee piled up at Puerto Barrios, with no shipping in sight. . . . The British have purchased the entire sugar crop of the Dominican Republic. . . . Labor troubles in the Potosi mines, high in the Bolivian Andes, are expected to cause a decline in tin exports to U. S. . . . Argentina is casting uneasy glances at delivery of U. ### ECONOMIC CONTROL

IT IS inevitable, even in the freest of countries, that the national economy shall be controlled by the government in war time. Otherwise unregulated human nature will take hold and start a fatal spiral of hoarding, rising prices, speculation and economic confusion.

In such a situation the President proposes and Congress disposes. The President has large war-time powers, but not dictatorial powers. He has indicated what measures he and his expert advisers consider necessary, and leaves the matter in the hands of Congress for action. The nation's attention, therefore, will be centered for the present on Congress, in the hope of prompt and decisive action.

It is not essential for Congress to follow slavishly any blue-print laid down by the executive in a situation like this. But the importance of the proposals submitted to Congress is obvious, and no less obvious is the desirability of speed. Such problems as farm prices, rents, wages, rationing of essential commodities, discouragement of wasteful spending, payment of debts and general clearing for action and getting set for the big storm, all these are urgent. So far in this war, Congress has shown a notable capacity for prompt and effective action in emergency. The public expects similar procedure now.

REST FOR HITLER

HITLER in his latest speech to the world told plaintively how, in nine years of toil for the Fatherland and the triumph of the great principles for which he stands, he had not had three days' vacation. The complaint is one of the signs by which it may be seen how the Fuehrer is aging. Also how the world is going and how fate is catching up with him.

Never before has he uttered such a complaint. He always seemed to be having a wonderful time kicking Europe around and lambasting England and telling the world how to jump off the deep end. Adolf is getting old. And in that sad process, as is the way of mankind in general, he tends to pessimism.

Well he may! For never in human history has there been a man so widely feared, hated and resented as this mad genius, with his immense capacity for hatred and destruction. He has taught the civilized world to hate with an intensity it never felt before, and to rally all its resources to crush the cause of this hatred. The hot breath of retribution is now blowing so fiercely on the back of Adolf's neck that he seems unlikely to get a holiday anywhere this side of the river Lethe, whose waters bring forgetfulness.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE .... Hour By Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Beat the alarm, dressed leisurely and sat on the front porch waiting for the boy with the morning prints. Temperature absolutely right for me. Would take it the year around. Little new on the war. Drank my coffee and headed for the post. Picked up Irv Kinsey and delivered him to his store that was robbed of more than $8,000 in merchandise ten days ago. So far not a single lead toward the robbers. Entirely too bad, for Irv had built a store of which the ville could be proud. I suppose that the hard-earned money stolen from him is already being spent on wild women, gambling and liquor.

There goes Ade Yates, just back from Washington where he spent several days trying to induce the government to take him into the army. Willing to serve anywhere in any capacity, he told the big-wigs, but he received no definite promise. Ade served well in the last war and right now is physically fit.

Should be of real value somewhere in the service.

Chatted with Karl Herrmann and learned that this week end he leaves for Wright Field, Dayton, where he was qualified for a post under civil service. Met Sam Joseph, who looks quite shaky after his recent illness, but is moving toward complete recovery. Told me that his nephew Gershon David, of Cincinnati, has been selected for the officers training school at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Gershon is quite well known here.

Beginning to be some political talk about the ville. Saw Ralph May and heard that he will be a candidate for the legislature. Bill Radcliff will not be a candidate again for he figures that it will not be long before he will be in the service. Bill is a graduate of one of the officers training camps and should make a good officer.

Bish Given told me how he and Ralph Haines stood in the rain out along Deer creek and landed his limit of bass in less than an hour. "Rain seemed to stir them up," he said. "Never saw bass more active." And that means something, for Bish has seen and landed a lot of bass. Heard that Dud Carpenter, enroute home from a southern business trip, stopped for a few minutes at a Salt creek bridge and landed a nice pair of bass.

Bill Cady called me in the late afternoon and said, "Come down. I got something to show you." And he did. The biggest bunch of sponge mushrooms I ever have seen. Said Clarence Francis, who was with him, got just as many. Must have seen my mouth watering, for he filled a great pan and gave them to me. Had them for dinner, and then an hour later a woman called at the house selling mushrooms. Just wasn't in the market at that time, but would be almost any other time.

Sat in the cool of the back yard for quite a while and noted complete darkness had not yet fallen at 9 o'clock. So, decided to do some evening fishing on the last day of the early Spring bass season. And Deer creek will be the favored water.

LABOR CHIEFTAINS FAIL

WASHINGTON —AFL and CIO chiefs, sometimes called the President's "labor cabinet," tried to put the heat on him at the White House last week to stave off the ban on wage boosts. But they never had a chance.

The President pulled a charm filibuster on them—a favorite Roosevelt tactic when he wants to avoid talking about something.

Apparently the President figured the labor leaders would make a final attempt to block the pay freeze. So he launched his filibuster as soon as CIO president Philip Murray walked in, by previous arrangement 10 minutes ahead of the other members of the joint committee. Whatever Murray intended to say, he never had the remotest chance.

The President immediately started talking about New York politics, and what he described as the "colorful career" of Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti.

This took up nine of the 10 minutes allotted to Murray. Then, before he could break in, the President said, "Well, Phil, I guess it's time to call in the other boys. I know you don't want to keep them waiting."

That ended that. So Round I went to the President by a big margin.

ROUND TWO

Roosevelt took Round II by the same filibustering tactics and by the same wide margin.

Again, after the laborites had been seated and amenities had been exchanged, he launched immediately into a discussion of politics and politicians and kept this up in his most entertaining vein for most of the hour allotted to the conference.

Then he pointedly ended the meeting by remarking, "Well, boys, I guess it's time for lunch."

The disconcerted laborites had to take the hint. But as they rose to go Murray made one last attempt to raise the wage-freezing issue.

"Mr. President," he said, "are you going to issue an order to the War Labor Board not to grant any further wage increases?"

Cocking his cigarette holder at a breezy angle the President answered with a broad grin, "Well, Phil, I haven't said that I will and I haven't said that I won't."

And that's all the laborites were able to get out of him.

PETTY POLITICS

Behind the scenes, there was more to this incident than a maneuver to avert an unwelcome discussion.

Actually it was the climax to a growing resentment in White House quarters at the shortsighted attitude of the labor chiefs toward the gave inflation situation and their persistent practice of playing petty politics on important appointments affecting their own interests.

A graphic illustration was their recommendation of Wendell Lund, little-known executive director of the Michigan State Unemployment Compensation Commission, for appointment as head of the reorganiza-

Medical Civilian Defense Increases Need for Doctors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE WORK of the medical boards for civilian defense seems to me to fall into three categories. First: there is the supply of civilian physicians for the ordinary normal needs of civilian medical practice; second: there are the two possibilities of an emergency among civilians, one due to an outbreak of an epidemic of infectious disease and the other due to injuries from bombing or a military attack.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The most pressing of these is the first. Although our complacency has had a number of jolts, the possibility of bombing or a military attack is still fairly remote, but with as many as 40 to 80 per cent of freshman medical students being signed up for the Army or Navy service, it means that for eight years the number of physicians who enter civilian practice will be greatly reduced.

Military Needs

This will not be greatly helped even if the medical schools increase their output. The increased output will be needed for military and naval service. For some time, however, there will probably be no dislocation of normal medical attendants, and the procurement and assignment committees will allow the population to use its own family medical adviser as much as possible.

If we should have an emergency, however, undoubtedly a strict form of regulation will occur. For instance, if such a thing as the influenza epidemic which occurred in the last World War should arise, it would be wasteful for one physician in civilian practice to attend patients whose homes were five or six miles apart. A city or county would have to be divided up into regional districts and a physician assigned to each district so that he could make rounds as if he were in a large, spread-out hospital.

In Case of Emergency
The same thing will occur in the event of bombing, sabotage or other military emergencies. Of course, with the possibility of a real military emergency, the work will probably be entirely in the hands of the Army Medical Corps.

All these things can very easily be arranged or planned for some time in advance, but simple as it seems, there is a notable dilatoriness about the completion of arrangements. In the first place, as in every other department of public or political life, we have entirely too many agencies set up.

As I write these words, the situation in the Middle Western cities is in a completely disorganized condition. It isn't exactly that we have chaos, but that we have nothing whatever. Perhaps by the time this article is published, something definite will have happened. The possibility of an epidemic, while much more likely than that of bombing raids, is also quite remote. We seem to have been lucky in that we have run into a period in which all contagious diseases are on the down grade. There has been very little contagious disease so far in the Army.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

T. R.:—Could the partition in the nose (septum) be removed and if so, would it be dangerous?

Answer: This is one of the frequent surgical operations and does not carry with it any special danger.

F. R.:—Is inflammatory rheumatism the same as rheumatic fever? Does swelling of the ankles indicate a weak heart? Does inflammatory rheumatism always damage the heart?

Answer: Inflammatory rheumatism and acute rheumatic fever are the same thing. Swelling of the ankles may be caused by a great number of things that have nothing to do with the heart such as, for instance, varicose veins. Inflammatory rheumatism does not always damage the heart, but does so in a very large number of cases.

SYNOPSIS

Three young airline hostesses, TIBBY LANE, sweet and natural; STERNA WINTERS, beautiful and sophisticated; and MARG BAKER, plain, sturdy and direct, share an apartment together in New York, where they are based. A friend of Tibby's, TOMMY DARE, is spending his first year out of medical school at a clinic in Brooklyn. STERNA sets her cap for WAYNE COURTRIGHT, wealthy official of the airline.

YESTERDAY: Tibby and Tommy's outing ends in a dispute.

CHAPTER TEN

AFTERWARD, thinking over Tommy's odd proposal—and his immediate request that she forget it—Tibby decided that it could not be called a proposal at all. Tommy really had not been serious, although he had worn such a strained, grave look. It had just been an impulse, as quickly regretted. Hadn't she read somewhere that when a man proposed he always half hoped the answer would be no? Men did not like to relinquish their precious freedom. They liked to keep the upper hand. They really hated to be caught in the matrimonial net.

Tommy knew very well, as he himself had said, that he had a long road ahead, a road much easier traveled alone, if he hoped to establish himself as a successful doctor. He ought not to be considering marriage for some time. He ought to steer clear of any emotional entanglements. Maybe that was why he had made his proposal as unromantic as possible, his declaration as to how he felt about her so off-hand.

She was a habit with him, nothing more. He couldn't possibly imagine her being deeply in love with her; he knew her too long and too well. Of course he was fond of her, as she was of him. But he was not swept off the ground. He could manage to live without her, if necessary. He would not pine away.

When a man, the right man, fell in love with her, Tibby wanted it to be wildly, hopelessly—without reservations. Even if there should be postponed—like the long road for Tommy, her own work which she would not want to give up yet—such reasons should be inconsequential in comparison with this great love.

Surely that wasn't asking too much. A girl could dream, couldn't she? And sometimes dreams did come true. Tibby meant to wait until he said, "I love you." Tibby could even picture how the man would look. Tall and dark and demanding. Not a bit like Tommy who, although so nice to look upon, was unexciting; probably because, again, she was so used to looking at him.

"A penny for them, Miss Lane," a voice said at Tibby's elbow. She was leaning on it—though she jumped now—on the lunch counter in the administration building at the field. "I realize they must be worth much more, your thoughts. Name the price—I'll gladly pay it."

"They aren't worth a penny, even," Tibby said. She felt herself blushing a tell-tale crimson, not only at having been caught with such thoughts as hers had been, but because it was Wayne Courtright who stood looking down on her. He wore that twisted humor about his handsome mouth, his gray eyes, even more penetrating and disturbing than she had remembered, although still of steel, held amusement, too.

"I stood here ten minutes," he explained. "You were completely unaware of me, or the rest of the world." No doubt a new experience to a man used to having every feminine head bob up at his approach, every feminine glance turn in his direction. "There are some things beyond purchase price, so if you won't share them, I shan't insist."

Tibby could not know how lovely she looked, taken unaware like that, her sweet face flushed, her eyes lighted. She was thinking that Wayne Courtright could have been the man. Only, of course, as far as looks were concerned. He was tall and dark and demanding, certainly. Exciting, too. Else why should she feel little prickles all down the length of her spine, and her pulse race so furiously?

"I do insist, however," he was saying, "that you allow me to join you. Shall we move over to a table? We cannot talk so well here."

Without waiting for her answer, he gave a waiter a curt nod, indicating that he wished the hot chocolate and sandwich, that Tibby had ordered, moved. He selected the most desirable corner, overlooking the runways to the terminal, with a vast expanse of sky beyond. He swept Tibby into a chair opposite his almost before she knew what was happening.

It made you kind of light-headed, the masterful way Mr. Courtright had of managing things and people and situations. At least Tibby felt confused and impressed and sort of quaky.

She was so surprised he had even remembered her. It had been weeks since that day in his office when she had thought she would lose her job. She wondered now that she had dared be so independent, saying she had not thought she deserved to be dismissed. She wondered that he could recall even her name.

She did not realize that it had been a new experience, from so many varied ones, for him to encounter a girl, or anyone for that matter, who had dared say what she thought. New experiences were too rare in a life so crammed and overflowing as Wayne Courtright's to be overlooked or forgotten. He had not forgotten this girl, or the things she had said, or the way she had looked. He had intended looking her up, had he not run into her accidentally like this, although an accidental encounter was more to his liking.

She looked just as he recalled. Very young, with none of youth's loveliness rubbed off, not even at the edges. Very natural, without the slightest suspicion of artificiality. Very sweet—and desirable—yet somehow strong. He had admired her courage that day. He was an excellent judge of character, as well as of true beauty.

He really would have liked to have known what her thoughts had been, to have made her so absorbed and removed from her surroundings, to have given her face that lighted look, her eyes that soft radiance.

But he did not ask her again. He had said he would not. Instead, he said, "Tell me, how are things going? Are you still so enthused with your position as stewardess? Does flying still mean so much to you? Everything, indeed?" He repeated her own words.

She had wondered what they would find to talk about. This would not be difficult—it gave a common ground. She said, "Oh, yes—it's still just as wonderful, just as thrilling. I can't believe it sometimes when I find myself way up there in the sky, the world below so terribly tiny, so unimportant. That's part of it, I guess. To look down on it all and realize how small it can be. How small everything is—in relation to flying, having wings—that something inside you that is separate, apart—somehow bigger—yourself, I suppose—or your soul."

She stopped, amazed once more that she would dare speak thus to him, a man she scarcely knew. Her innermost thoughts, her heart almost.

Yet she knew, instinctively, that flying meant as much to him. He had been one of the first men to seek wings, one of the old-timers, the trail blazers. Not that Mr. Courtright was old. He must be in his thirties. He had not needed trails to blaze. Which meant he, too, had felt these things.

"Yes, that's the way it is," he said. He understood. He did not think it strange to speak one's soul. "For some, that is. Only a chosen few, perhaps." His eyes smiled deeply into hers, something they did not do easily, which made a moment apart when they did. "I knew you would feel that way. I'm glad. Tell me." He leaned forward across the little table. "Would you like to learn to fly—by yourself, I mean? So that you'd really be alone—up there—looking down on this small and insignificant—and beautiful—world?"

Tibby gasped. Would she like it—when that really had been her most cherished and secret dream of all. When she had never dared think about such a possibility, contenting herself with coming as close as she could in her position as hostess in a ship, although she had just been thinking that sometimes dreams did come true. But not this one surely. Not so unexpectedly. So soon.

"Would I like it?" How inadequate words were! She did not need them, not with that shining look in her eyes, her tremulous breath. "I'd like it more than anything in all the world."

ECONOMIC CONTROL

IT IS inevitable, even in the freest of countries, that the national economy shall be controlled by the government in war time. Otherwise unregulated human nature will take hold and start a fatal spiral of hoarding, rising prices, speculation and economic confusion.

In such a situation the President proposes and Congress disposes. The President has large war-time powers, but not dictatorial powers. He has indicated what measures he and his expert advisers consider necessary, and leaves the matter in the hands of Congress for action. The nation's attention, therefore, will be centered for the present on Congress, in the hope of prompt and decisive action.

It is not essential for Congress to follow slavishly any blue-print laid down by the executive in a situation like this. But the importance of the proposals submitted to Congress is obvious, and no less obvious is the desirability of speed. Such problems as farm prices, rents, wages, rationing of essential commodities, discouragement of wasteful spending, payment of debts and general clearing for action and getting set for the big storm, all these are urgent.

So far in this war, Congress has shown a notable capacity for prompt and effective action in emergency. The public expects similar procedure now.

REST FOR HITLER

HITLER in his latest speech to the world told plaintively how, in nine years of toil for the Fatherland and the triumph of the great principles for which he stands, he had not had three days' vacation. The complaint is one of the signs by which it may be seen how the Fuehrer is aging. Also how the world is going and how fate is catching up with him.

Never before has he uttered such a complaint. He always seemed to be having a wonderful time kicking Europe around and lambasting England and telling the world how to jump off the deep end. Adolf is getting old. And in that sad process, as is the way of mankind in general, he tends to pessimism.

Well he may! For never in human history has there been a man so widely feared and hated and resented as this mad genius, with his immense capacity for hatred and destruction. He has taught the civilized world to hate with an intensity it never felt before, and to rally all its resources to crush the cause of this hatred. The hot breath of retribution is now blowing so fiercely on the back of Adolf's neck that he seems unlikely to get a holiday anywhere this side of the river Lethe, whose waters bring forgetfulness.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE .... Hour By Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Beat the alarm, dressed leisurely and sat on the front porch waiting for the boy with the morning prints. Temperature absolutely right for me. Would take it the year around. Little new on the war. Drank my coffee and headed for the post. Picked up Irv Kinsey and delivered him to his store that was robbed of more than $8,000 in merchandise ten days ago. So far not a single lead toward the robbers. Entirely too bad, for Irv had built a store of which the ville could be proud. I suppose that the hard-earned money stolen from him is already being spent on wild women, gambling and liquor.

There goes Ade Yates, just back from Washington where he spent several days trying to induce the government to take him into the army. Willing to serve anywhere in any capacity, he told the big-wigs, but he received no definite promise. Ade served well in the last war and right now is physically fit.

Should be of real value somewhere in the service.

Chatted with Karl Herrmann and learned that this week end he leaves for Wright Field, Dayton, where he was qualified for a post under civil service. Met Sam Joseph, who looks quite shaky after his recent illness, but is moving toward complete recovery. Told me that his nephew Gershon David, of Cincinnati, has been selected for the officers training school at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Gershon is quite well known here.

Beginning to be some political talk about the ville. Saw Ralph May and heard that he will be a candidate for the legislature. Bill Radcliff will not be a candidate again for he figures that it will not be long before he will be in the service. Bill is a graduate of one of the officers training camps and should make a good officer.

Blah Given told me how he and Ralph Haines stood in the rain out along Deer creek and landed his limit of bass in less than an hr. "Rain seemed to stir them up," he said. "Never saw bass more active." And that means something, for Bish has seen and landed a lot of bass. Heard that Dud Carpenter, enroute home from a southern business trip, stopped for a few minutes at a Salt creek bridge and landed a nice pair of bass.

Bill Cady called me in the late afternoon and said, "Come down. I got something to show you." And he did. The biggest bunch of sponge mushrooms I ever have seen. Said Clarence Francis, who was with him, got just as many. Must have seen my mouth watering, for he filled a great pan and gave them to me. Had them for dinner, and then an hour later a woman called at the house selling mushrooms. Just wasn't in the market at that time, but would be almost any other time.

Sat in the cool of the back yard for quite a while and noted complete darkness had not yet fallen at 9 o'clock. So, decided to do some evening fishing on the last day of the early spring bass season. And Deer creek will be the favored water.

LABOR CHIEFTAINS FAIL

WASHINGTON —AFL and CIO chiefs, sometimes called the President's "labor cabinet," tried to put the heat on him at the White House last week to stave off the ban on wage boosts. But they never had a chance.

The President pulled a charm filibuster on them—a favorite Roosevelt tactic when he wants to avoid talking about something.

Apparently the President figured the labor leaders would make a final attempt to block the pay freeze. So he launched his filibuster as soon as CIO president Philip Murray walked in, by previous arrangement 10 minutes ahead of the other members of the joint committee. Whatever Murray intended to say, he never had the remotest chance.

The President immediately started talking about New York politics, and what he described as the "colorful career" of Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti.

This took up nine of the 10 minutes allotted to Murray. Then, before he could break in, the President said, "Well, Phil, I guess it's time to call in the other boys. I know you don't want to keep them waiting."

That ended that. So Round I went to the President by a big margin.

ROUND TWO

Roosevelt took Round II by the same filibustering tactics and by the same wide margin.

Again, after the laborites had been seated and amenities had been exchanged, he launched immediately into a discussion of politics and politicians and kept this up in his most entertaining vein for most of the hour allotted to the conference.

Then he pointedly ended the meeting by remarking, "Well, boys, I guess it's time for lunch."

The disconcerted laborites had to take the hint. But as they rose to go Murray made one last attempt to raise the wage-freezing issue.

"Mr. President," he said, "are you going to issue an order to the War Labor Board not to grant any further wage increases?"

Cocking his cigarette holder at a breezy angle the President answered with a broad grin, "Well, Phil, I haven't said that I will and I haven't said that I won't."

And that's all the laborites were able to get out of him.

PETTY POLITICS

Behind the scenes, there was more to this incident than a maneuver to avert an unwelcome discussion.

Actually it was the climax to a growing resentment in White House quarters at the shortsighted attitude of the labor chiefs toward the gave inflation situation and their persistent practice of playing petty politics on important appointments affecting their own interests.

A graphic illustration was their recommendation of Wendell Lund, little-known executive director of the Michigan State Unemployment Compensation Commission, for appointment as head of the reorganiza-

Medical Civilian Defense Increases Need for Doctors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE WORK of the medical boards for civilian defense seems to me to fall into three categories. First: there is the supply of civilian physicians for the ordinary normal needs of civilian medical practice; second: there are the two possibilities of an emergency

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

among civilians, one due to an outbreak of an epidemic of infectious disease and the other due to injuries from bombing or a military attack.

The most pressing of these is the first. Although our complacency has had a number of jolts, the possibility of bombing or a military attack is still fairly remote, but with as many as from 40 to 80 per cent of freshman medical students being signed up for the Army or Navy service, it means that for eight years the number of physicians who enter civilian practice will be greatly reduced.

Military Needs

This will not be greatly helped even if the medical schools increase their output. The increased output will be needed for military and naval service. For some time, however, there will probably be no dislocation of normal medical attendants, and the procurement and assignment committees will allow the population to use its own family medical adviser as much as possible.

If we should have an emergency, however, undoubtedly a strict form of regulation will occur. For instance, if such a thing as the influenza epidemic which occurred in the last World War should arise, it would be wasteful for one physician in civilian practice to attend patients whose homes were five or six miles apart. A city or county would have to be divided up into regional districts and a physician assigned to each district so that he could make rounds as if he were in a large, spread-out hospital.

In Case of Emergency

The same thing will occur in the event of bombing, sabotage or other military emergencies. Of course, with the possibility of a

Three young airline hostesses, TIBBY LANE, sweet and natural; STEENA WINTERS, beautiful and sophisticated; and MARY BAKER, plain, sturdy and direct, share an apartment together in New York, where they are based. A friend of Tibby's, TOMMY DARE, is spending his first year out of medical school at a clinic in Brooklyn. Steena sets her cap for WAYNE COURTRIGHT, wealthy official of the airline.

YESTERDAY: Tibby's and Tommy's outing ends in a dispute.

CHAPTER TEN
AFTERWARD, thinking over Tommy's odd proposal—and his immediate request that she forget it—Tibby decided that it could not be called a proposal at all. Tommy really had not been serious, although he had worn such a strained, grave look. It had just been an impulse, as quickly regretted. Hadn't she read somewhere that when a man proposed he always half hoped the answer would be no? Men did not like to relinquish their precious freedom. They liked to keep the upper hand. They really hated to be caught in the matrimonial net.

Tommy knew very well, as he himself had said, that he had a long road ahead, a road much easier traveled alone, if he hoped to establish himself as a successful doctor. He ought not to be considering marriage for some time. He ought to steer clear of any emotional entanglements. Maybe that was why he had made his proposal as unromantic as possible, his declaration as to how he felt about her so off-hand.

She was a habit with him, nothing more. He couldn't possibly imagine he was deeply in love with her; he knew her too long and too well. Of course he was fond of her, as she was of him. But he was not swept off the ground. He could manage to live without her, if necessary. He would not pine away.

When a man, the right man, fell in love with her, Tibby wanted it to be wildly, hopelessly—without reservations. Even if there should be reasons why marriage should be postponed—like the long road for Tommy, her own work which she would not want to give up yet—such reasons should be inconsequential in comparison with this great love.

Surely that wasn't asking too much. A girl could dream, couldn't she? And sometimes dreams did come true. Tibby meant to wait until she did. She could even picture how the man would look. Tall and dark and demanding. Not a bit like Tommy who, although so nice to look upon, was unexciting; probably because, again, she was so used to looking at him.

"A penny for them, Miss Lane," a voice said at Tibby's elbow. She was leaning on it—though she jumped now—on the lunch counter in the administration building at the field. "I realize they must be worth much more, your thoughts. Name the price—I'll gladly pay it."

She did not realize that it had been a new experience, from so many varied ones, for him to encounter a girl, or anyone for that matter, who had dared say what she thought. New experiences were too rare in a life so crammed and overflowing as Wayne Courtwright's to be overlooked or forgotten. He had not forgotten this girl, or the things she had said, or the way she had looked. He had intended looking her up, had he not run into her accidentally like this, although an accidental encounter was more to his liking.

She looked just as he recalled. Very young, with none of youth's loveliness rubbed off, not even at the edges. Very natural, without the slightest suspicion of artificial-

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of much activity and enterprise with all affairs of importance, especially new propositions, moving at high tempo and possibly with misspent energy and initiative. This may be due to the antagonism and want of friendly cooperation of those in high places either in public or private bodies, who disapprove of extravagance, excessive outlay or other plans of prodigal proportions. A similar disaffection may penetrate to private and domestic life, inspiring opposition as well as trickiness or subtle undermining. With reason and proper restraint there should be many benefits and progress.

A child born on this day while being enterprising, progressive and of definite skill, ingenuity and sound purpose may be carried away by its ardor, overenthusiasm, and tendency to plunge and take chances with public or other financial substance. Its domestic life may be subject to emotional or passionate commotion.

Luncheon-Bridge Party Held At Country Club

Mrs. C. G. Shulze Is Hostess; Flowers
Fill House

Mrs. Charles G. Shulze of 316 South Court street entertained delightfully at a luncheon-bridge party Wednesday at 1 p. m. at the Pickaway Country club. The newly remodeled and redecorated club house was a perfect setting for the lovely Spring party.

Guests were seated at small tables on the large porch during the luncheon hour. The all-white porch had matching furnishings, the table tops only being in delicate pastel tints. For her party, Mrs. Shulze used centerpieces of lavender lilacs with matching glass ware and china on the two orchid-topped tables; the light blue-topped table had bleeding hearts with cranberry glass and appropriate service plates; the yellow table, lilacs of the valley with crystal; and the green table, crab apple blossoms and lilacs of the valley with crystal service.

Large bouquets of lilacs completed the decorations of the porch and were used in the all-green lounge together with a large jar of Japanese quince. The buff and white of the dining room was enhanced with its bouquet of lavender lilacs. The powder room was spring-like in its new color theme of blue and yellow.

Contract bridge was played during the afternoon with prizes of defense standings going to the two guests holding high scores and the one with the low score.

The guest list included Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Mabel Walling, Mrs. Tom Brown, Mrs. Glenn I. Nickerson, Miss Mary Marfield, Mrs. Joe Wilder, Mrs. William Foreman, Miss Bertha Bowers, Miss Mary Foreman, Mrs. C. A. Weldon, Mrs. Fred Brunner, Mrs. H. P. Folsom, Mrs. Charles H. ### Presby-Weds

An excellent musical program was enjoyed at the meeting of the Presby-Weds Wednesday in the social room of the Presbyterian church, several pupils of Pickaway township schools appearing under the direction of Robert Lintz, instrument instructor of the school. Hewitt Harnout of the fifth grade sang two solos, "The Flag and the Eagle" and "God Bless America," for the opening number. Nancy McGinnis and Carol Lee Francis were heard in a clarinet solo, "Prairie Warblers." Jean Penn, a junior, sang two delightful solos, "White Cliffs of Dover" and "America, I Love You." Mr. Lintz concluded the entertainment with a cornet solo, "Violetta Polka," by Richards.

Carl Burger, vice president, conducted the brief business meeting and announced Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howell as hosts for the May session.

Twenty-five were present for the meeting and for the cooperative dinner served at 6:30 p. m. A crystal bowl of pink and lilacs of the valley centered the table.

Altar Society

Fifty-five members attended the meeting of the Altar society of St. Joseph's Catholic church Wednesday in the new recreation center of the church and heard an excellent talk by Dr. Howard Jones on birds of Ohio and Pickaway county. He interspersed his discussion with many interesting reminiscences of his boyhood study of birds of this vicinity.

Mrs. J. C. Rader, president, was in charge of the business session. An entertaining series of motion pictures completed the entertainment.

Lunch was served by Miss Margaret Rooney assisted by Miss Catherine Nairn, Miss Ann Engle, Mrs. E. E. Smith, Mrs. Irvin Snyder, Miss Eleanor Snyder, Mrs. Don Mason, Mrs. Olive Stocklen, Miss Henrietta Stocklen, Mrs. Tom Drum, Mrs. Joe Butts and Miss Maggie Mountz.

Mrs. Charles G. Shulze of 316 South Court street entertained delightfully at a luncheon-bridge party Wednesday at 1 p. m. at the Pickaway Country club. The newly remodeled and redecorated club house was a perfect setting for the lovely Spring party.

Guests were seated at small tables on the large porch during the luncheon hour. The all-white porch had matching furnishings, the table tops only being in delicate pastel tints. Large bouquets of lilacs completed the decorations of the porch and were used in the all-green lounge together with a large jar of Japanese quince. The buff and white of the dining room was enhanced with its bouquet of lavender lilacs. The powder room was spring-like in its new color theme of blue and yellow.

boro has a track team each may be represented by a couple of individuals shooting for points.

The twilight event starts at 7 o'clock in Gardner park, an excellent setting for the competition.

The host team has been the SCO titlist for the last two years. Robert Terhune, former Circleville high principal, is coaching the Blue Lion harriers.

Coach Roy Black expects his lads to be at full strength.

The Tiger golf team was tangling with Columbus Aquinas Thursday afternoon on the Pickaway Country club course, the match being brought here so local golfers could finish in time to take part in the senior class play, scheduled tonight.

The Redlegs had the Dodgers defeated yesterday until two were out in the ninth frame. Then Dolph Camilli smashed out his fourth homer of the season to tie the score. The Dodgers went on in the tenth to bang across three more runs for a 5 to 2 victory.

Kirby Higbe hurled for Brooklyn, allowing the Reds only four safeties. Bucky Walters started for the Reds but lasted but one frame. Ray Starr finished, allowing but five hits and walking but one man in the nine frames he hurled. Frank McCormick homered in the second inning when the Reds scored both their runs.

The only explanation we could get is that many of the folk think the son of Good Goods has been brought along for this race and was not preselected with in the Chesapeake at Havre De Grace two weeks ago or in the Derby trial. Others are sticking with him because of his tremendous heart.

The truth, as we see it, is for the first time in heaven allows knows when, the good citizens of the blue grass are as bewildered as the citizens along Jacobs Beach when a 3 to 5 shot runs out of the money to ruin a four horse parlay.

They just don't know whom to go to this time.

We are not going to say the Derby is wide open. We gather you have guessed that by this time. But the horse Kentucky wants to go to, and probably will, is the Greentree stable's Devil Diver.

At last! the holding them back is the Diver hasn't raced here. He's worked impressively but it seems to be a legend that works are fine — but a good race is a much better test of a colt's real worth, at least a week before the Derby. You'll recall Devil Diver had to miss his race, the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland last Thursday, because of a cut left hind leg.

few days will tell whether the clubs along the eastern seaboard can carry out their night schedules. New York in particular is affected. Military authorities are trying to decide whether a lighted up ball park should be exempt from blackout or dimouts.

Off-hand I would say that major league baseball is no more exempt than a big blazing sign in New York's Times square.

At the time the change was made league baseball strutted about presuming to say that it was doing something for the war effort, when, as a matter of fact, the new routine meant nothing more nor less than more revenue for baseball, which used the President's suggestion as a peg on which to hang its own aims.

DERBY PUZZLE WILL CALL FOR HOLMES ET AL

Mystery Writers, Detectives Needed To Pick Winner Of Kentucky Race

By JACK MAHON
LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 —

The 1942 Kentucky Derby puzzle, which should be covered by guys like Edgar Wallace, Ellery Queen and the Shadow instead of a gang of poor, bewildered sports scribes, provided another amazing twist today when we learned via a canvass of the local hardboots, that the citizens of old Kentucky are liable to make poor, overworked Alsab the betting favorite in the 68th annual run for the roses Saturday.

This is not double-talk; it's the stark, raving, truth. Alsab, which has been classed by those who saw him in the Derby trial Tuesday as looking like a WPA worker after an honest week's toil, was rated a slight favorite here today. And many of the locals think he'll go to the post the public choice.

How a horse which every learned horseman says plainly shows the effect of overwork can still hold the support of the public after losing seven races in succession is one of the greatest Derby mysteries of all time.

If he were a Kentucky-owned colt, there might be some explanation. But Alsab is owned by Mrs. Al Sabath of Chicago.

The only explanation

Tiger Track Team Will Meet Two League Foes

Circleville high track stars will be after the South Central Ohio league gonfalon tonight when they travel to Washington C. H. to vie against the Blue Lions and Wilmington Hurricane for the honors. While neither Greenfield nor Hillsboro has a track team each may be represented by a couple of individuals shooting for points.

The twilight event starts at 7 o'clock in Gardner park, an excellent setting for the competition. The host team has been the SCO titlist for the last two years. Robert Terhune, former Circleville high principal, is coaching the Blue Lion harriers.

Coach Roy Black expects his lads to be at full strength. The Tiger golf team was tangling with Columbus Aquinas Thursday afternoon on the Pickaway Country club course, the match being brought here so local golfers could finish in time to take part in the senior class play, scheduled tonight.

The Redlegs had the Dodgers defeated yesterday until two were out in the ninth frame. Then Dolph Camilli smashed out his fourth homer of the season to tie the score. The Dodgers went on in the tenth to bang across three more runs for a 5 to 2 victory.

Kirby Higbe hurled for Brooklyn, allowing the Reds only four safeties. Bucky Walters started for the Reds but lasted but one frame. Ray Starr finished, allowing but five hits and walking but one man in the nine frames he hurled. Frank McCormick homered in the second inning when the Reds scored both their runs.

The only explanation we could get is that many of the folk think the son of Good Goods has been brought along for this race and was not preselected with in the Chesapeake at Havre De Grace two weeks ago or in the Derby trial. Others are sticking with him because of his tremendous heart.

The truth, as we see it, is, for the first time in heaven alone knows when, the good citizens of the blue grass are as bewildered as the citizens along Jacobs Beach when a 3 to 5 shot runs out of the money to ruin a four horse parley. They just don't know whom to go to this time.

We are not going to say the Derby is wide open. We gather you have guessed that by this time. But the horse Kentucky wants to go to, and probably will, is the Greentree stable's Devil Diver.

At that's holding them back is the Diver hasn't raced here. He's worked impressively but it seems to be a legend that works are fine — but a good race is a much better test of a colt's real worth, at least a week before the Derby. You'll recall Devil Diver had to miss his race, the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland last Thursday, because of a cut left hind leg.

NIGHT BASEBALL
ON EAST COAST
MAY BE BANNED

By LAWTON CARVER
NEW YORK, April 30—Major league baseball today awaited the final answer as to whether night games can be played in the East.

Taking advantage of President Roosevelt's request that baseball arrange a schedule to permit as many persons as possible engaged in war work to attend games, baseball promptly and possibly unwisely altered rules and revised judgment to enable each club to stage 14 night games at home. Previously the rules had called for seven games.

At the time the change was made league baseball strutted about presuming to say that it was doing something for the war effort, when, as a matter of fact, the new routine meant nothing more or less than more revenue for baseball, which used the President's suggestion as a peg on which to hang its own aims.

DERBY PUZZLE WILL CALL FOR HOLMES ET AL

Mystery Writers, Detectives
Needed To Pick Winner
Of Kentucky Race

By JACK MAHON
LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30—The 1942 Kentucky Derby puzzle, which should be covered by guys like Edgar Wallace, Ellery Queen and the Shadow instead of a gang of poor, bewildered sports scribes, provided another amazing twist today when we learned via a canvass of the local hardboots, that the citizens of old Kentucky are liable to make poor, overworked Alsab the betting favorite in the 68th annual run for the roses Saturday.

This is not double-talk; it's the stark, raving, truth. Alsab, which has been classed by those who saw him in the Derby trial Tuesday as looking like a WPA worker after an honest week's toil, was rated a slight favorite here today. And many of the locals think he'll go to the post the public choice.

How a horse which every learned horseman says plainly shows the effect of overwork can still hold the support of the public after losing seven races in succession is one of the greatest Derby mysteries of all time.

If he were a Kentucky-owned colt, there might be some explanation. But Alsab is owned by Mrs. Al Sabath of Chicago.

The only explanation we could get is that many of the folk think the son of Good Goods has been brought along for this race and was not preselected with in the Chesapeake at Havre De Grace two weeks ago or in the Derby trial. Others are sticking with him because of his tremendous heart.

The truth, as we see it, is, for the first time in heaven alone knows when, the good citizens of the blue grass are as bewildered as the citizens along Jacobs Beach when a 3 to 5 shot runs out of the money to ruin a four horse parley. They just don't know whom to go to this time.

BROWNIES WHIP YANKEES TWICE INDIANS GO ON

NEW YORK, April 30—Of all the slumping clubs in the major leagues during this early, unpredictable part of the season Luke Sewell's St. Louis Browns were about as bad as any until they found themselves in the ring with the champion.

Rated as one of the potentially good American league clubs at the start of the current campaign, the Browns started in such fashion that they were down in the company of the lowliest and they still are for that matter but apparently won't be for long.

They snapped a nine-game losing streak Tuesday when the veteran Elden Auker beat the equal-veteran Red Ruffing, 3 to 1, then bounced back with a batting attack yesterday to trounce the New York Yankees for the second day in a row and to knock the latter from the leadership into third place in the American league standings.

The score against the Yankees and four of their hurlers (Chandler, Lindell, Branch and Queen) was 11 to 6 as the Browns smashed out 11 hits including a pair of home runs accounting for three runs by Walter Judnich and another by Glenn McQuillen.

That's beating the champions at their own game and making it stick, for the Cleveland Indians ran their winning streak to 10 straight by beating the Philadelphia Athletics, 10 to 6, to take a firm hold on first place, while the Detroit Tigers hung on to second with a 4 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.
